

CERT Train-the-Trainer Program

Community Emergency Response Team

WORKSHOP

PRESENTED BY

Business & Industry Council for Emergency Planning & Preparedness

WHEN August 10, 11, and 12, 2010
8:00 am to 5:00 pm

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTION

This 3-day course will include information on how to start up and maintain a CERT program, methods for teaching the CERT course, as well as development and adaptation of the FEMA course materials. Throughout the course attendees will see examples of "best practices" from several private industry CERT programs.

Upon completion of this course, attendees will receive a Certificate of Completion, attesting to the fact the attendees completed BICEPP's CERT Train-the-Trainer course. Graduates of this course will be able to issue CERT certificates.

PREREQUISITE

Attendees must have already completed FEMA CERT training, the City of Los Angeles Fire Department CERT training, or an equivalent program. If the program you attended does not sight one of those agencies, a copy of the course curriculum must be provided in order to confirm the program covers the basic components.

Once a participant's attendance is confirmed, directions to the class and parking information will be provided.

Class size is limited and BICEPP members will be given priority if enrolled and registration is paid for prior to August 1, 2010.

Attire: Dress comfortably. There will be some hands-on training.

LOCATION Universal Studios Hollywood
Universal City, CA

COURSE MANAGER

Nancy Mathews, CEM
Nancy Mathews is a Certified Emergency Manager and has her Certificate of Fitness from the City of Los Angeles Fire Department for High-Rise Fire Safety. Ms. Mathews is a course manager for the FEMA Professional Development Series, and FEMA's CERT program. She has received the majority of her emergency management training through Cal EMA's California Specialized Training Institute, and the Emergency Management Institute in Emmitsburg, Maryland, where she completed the CERT Train-the-Trainer Program.

Course instruction will be provided by BICEPP members who are experienced in community emergency response team training and are certified instructors.
